- ARGENTINA'S BICENTENNIAL

On July 9, Argentina celebrates the Bicentennial of its independence. YMCA Argentina will be part of the celebration of this emblematic event in the history of the country. YMCA invited two hundred leading figures of Argentina's public and private sectors (politicians, trade union leaders, economists, legal scholars, representatives of the culture and education sectors, religious leaders, and civil society representatives) to share their thoughts on the meaning of the Bicentennial looking forward. Based on this material, a book was published entitled: "Thoughts to Consolidate Independence – From the Bicentennial to a Promising Future." The response was extraordinary. The Argentine President, Mauricio Macri, the Vice-President, Gabriela Michetti, as well as governors, presidents of both houses of Congress, and the highest religious authorities from Christianity, the Islam and Judaism, among many others, shared their thoughts.

- YMCA ARGENTINA AND ITS RELATION WITH EUROPE

In May, the secretary general of YMCA Argentina, Norberto Rodríguez, held meetings with the YMCAs from Hungary, Eva Tschornova, and Scotland, with its secretary general, Kerry Reilly and its amazing staff. He also had an interview with the officer of the YMCA European Alliance office in Brussels, Ilenia Ventroni. All this with the support of the European secretary general, Juan Simoes. The experience was very rewarding and enabled cooperation perspectives. Exposing with certainty the international– and, therefore, solidary like family – nature of the YMCA is fundamental.

- CONTINUED “THE HOUSE OF ABRAHAM” EXPERIENCE

On the afternoon of May 3, at the International Book Fair of Buenos Aires, the book “THE HOUSE OF ABRAHAM” (“La casa de Abraham”) was presented. A crowded audience attended the event, organized by the Tesa Foundation. The panel included Norberto Rodríguez, secretary general of YMCA Argentina. Also present were the ambassador for Israel, Dorit Shavit, and the U.S. ambassador, Noah Mamet, who shared some brief reflections. Norberto Rodríguez is one of the ten writers of the book and his chapter is entitled “Youth in Interreligious Dialogue and Social Commitment”. “The House of Abraham” is an interreligious experience that ties Christian traditions (both Catholic and Evangelical) to the Jewish and Islamic ones. The sacred books of the three religions are kept in a common space inside the largest synagogue of Argentina, located in the City of Buenos Aires. YMCA Argentina is the main guest of this initiative. The book presented at the International Book Fair of Buenos Aires is part of this meaningful sign of dialogue.

- “YMCA-CITIZENSHIP AND VALUES” AWARD

On June 2, YMCA Argentina held the 2016 edition of its “Citizenship and Values” Award Ceremony. The event was attended by a large audience at the Stock Exchange of Buenos Aires. The recipient was Hermenegildo Sábat, renowned Uruguayan artist who has lived in Argentina for several years now. This award recognizes those whose work contributes to promoting values, the defense of human dignity, the construction of citizenship, and the consolidation of full democracy.

This quality event takes place every two years and it brings relevance and distinction to our institution.

- FEDERICO PAGURA PASSED AWAY

Federico Pagura, Bishop Emeritus of the Argentine Evangelical Methodist Church, passed away last June 6. He was a religious leader renowned at the national and international levels. In 1988, he was the main speaker of the World Council of YMCAs held in Aruba. He did it with significant confidence. He was a strong advocate for human rights and people’s dignity, especially the most vulnerable. He was also a fighter for the freedom of peoples. His heart beat in deep Latin America, especially in Central America at very hard times in the region. He had a special affection for the YMCA. When he passed away, he served as chairman of the provisional Board of Directors of the YMCA in Rosario. He will be missed and his memory will live in his deeds.
